The Big Question is "Who Will Get The Bird"

By RALPH WHEELER
(Boston Herald Schoolboy
Sports Editor)

Coach Charlie Fitzgerald, the big "G" man and left halfback Bobby Fitzgerald, the little "g" man of the Boston Latin football squad expect to give English High plenty of "Fitz" before the conclusion of today's classic between the traditional rivals at the Harvard Stadium.

Latin and English, the oldest high school football rivalry in the nation, fittingly returns today to the Ivy clad walls of the Stadium where the greatest football players of all time have made the welkin ring.

English, which never has truffled in this long and glorious rivalry, enters today's 65th renewal with a record of 27 victories, 24 losses and 13 ties, since the series started back in 1887.

"We've pursued them relentlessly" said the veteran Latin coach, Charlie Fitzgerald, who is sending his 30th Purple and White team into action this morning, "but we never have been able to quite catch up with them.

"I wasn't too sure of our chances this year until you called me on Armistice Day night and told me that Boston College High had walloped English. You remember I was in bed with the virus, so I thought I was hearing things when you said B. C. High won, 37-12.

"When I was reassured that the score was correct I felt like getting right up out of bed and going into my dance. In any event, we won't have to stop Gerry O'Leary this year and our Fitzzy may put on the show this time."

The Fitzzy Coach Fitzgerald refers to is Bobby Fitzgerald, 150 pound junior halfback. He is a nephew of former Ambassador Joseph Kennedy and a grandson of the late John F. "Honey" Fitzgerald.

He will be the most amazing player in today's classic inasmuch as he made a remarkable comeback from an attack of polio, which almost cost him his life two years ago.

The March of Dimes has a grand example of how a person can fight back from the ravages of this dread disease in Bobby. The Latin halfback is very shifty, terrifically fast and a hard runner. He also is one of the unluckiest as he has had three runs of over 60 yards for touchdowns called back because of infractions by his teammates.

Latin's hopes of avenging last year's 41-30 defeat, the highest scoring game in the 64 year history of the rivalry, also rest on such outstanding players as halfback Jack Connelly and Captain and tackle Eddie Rosenthal.

Connelly, the son of the Juvenile Court judge, is another powerful runner, one of the most improved players on the Latin squad.

Rosenthal, who was elected president of the senior class two weeks ago, is one of only three or four Latin players to win a letter in each of his four years in school in the three decades that Charlie Fitz has been coaching the Purple and White. This six feet, two, 210 pound tackle is expected to reach his peak in today's schoolboy finale.

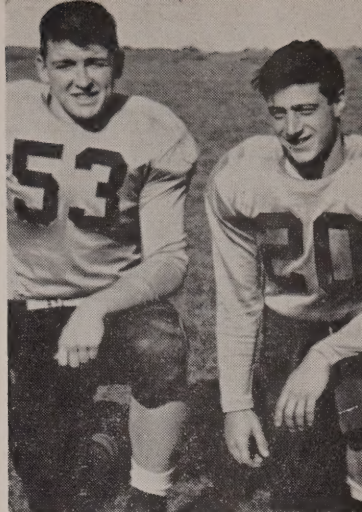

No one expects today's game to come anywhere near equalling last year's "track meet" in which 45 of the total of 71 points were scored in the second half. English kicked only once in that game, while outrushing Latin 328 yards to 150. It will be remembered that Latin gained 175 yards in the air against 101 for English, principally because English passed only once in the second half despite completing five out of six passes, against Latin's seven out of sixteen.

The big question today is "Who will get the bird" and we don't mean the turkey.

Oldest Public School and Oldest High School Meet Again

By ERNEST DALTON
(School Sports Editor, Boston Globe)

The oldest public school and the oldest high school in the nation, meeting in the oldest high school football rivalry of them all—in the country's oldest collegiate stadium.

That is the annual Latin-English football game, played today in historic Harvard Stadium. The 65th game of a series which began in 1887 and has continued every year without a break.

Modern day fans wouldn't recognize football of the Eighties, would not recognize the uniforms, the plays, the scoring system. Wouldn't understand the 'scrum', would be aghast at the now outlawed 'flying wedge'.

Then it was push-pull and play until you couldn't stand. Today it is fancy uniforms, big stadia, big crowds, hysteria, two platoons, trick plays, deception, T formation, wing-T, I formation, A formation.

To quote an old line, "Hardly a man is still alive today" who was on Boston Common when the students of English and Latin gathered to play that 1887 game. There were not many people at the game anyhow.

But that game is famous, as the first between the Purple and White of Latin, and the Blue and Blue of English. Latin won that game, 16-0, Baker, Dr. Art Broughton and Mackie scoring Purple touchdowns, John Kendricksen being nabbed for a safety.

That was the first game. And every year since, English and Latin have met in football. No other hoary series can make that boast. Other ivy series were broken off here and there. Only the English-Latin series is a true annual.

Tradition takes over when these two schools meet. Season records are forgotten. This is the game that makes or breaks a season. True, more often than not, the city-wide title (as it does today) rode on the issue. But always, the big thing was to win over the traditional foe.

But as tradition — memories of past deeds, past games, past heroes — permeates the stadium, English and Latin have kept up with the times. The brand of football is modern, and now — the games are televised.

The series has produced thrills and drama. The tie games, 13 of them, were tense affairs. The point after touchdown has decided six games. One game was won on a field goal, another produced a 3-3 tie, all points being on goals from the field. One touchdown was the winning margin on 17 other occasions.

Then there was last year's game, won by English, a game in which touchdown followed touchdown until the Blue came out on top 41 to 30. All "attack," yet, in analyzing the game, it was noted that a goal line stand by English in the first half was the vital turning point.

Whenever English and Latin grads get together, they rehash this game, that team, that star. And before long, an old Purple will rise and say "Oh him, he once played for Latin, but transferred to English."

Old Blues don't like to admit it, but it is true. Down through the years, boys have transferred from Latin to English and starred against former teammates. Maybe Bill Teevens, started it. He was a Latin fullback in the 1896 game, but fullbacked English in 1897.

Which brings up the 1902-3 story. In 1902, the Loughlin brothers, Tim and Jim starred for Latin. Another year, though Tim was still at Latin, Jim was at English. And in the annual game, Jim tackled Tim when the latter was on his way to a sure touchdown.

Drama. Yes. But that wasn't all. Between the halves, the brothers came to blows.

One thing that has struck this writer (the Loughlin story to the contrary) has been the whole hearted good feeling between the two squads. The rival coaches, down through the years, have been friends, on and off the field. As a result, bitterness never developed between the boys.

We well remember the English-Latin squad waiting to be 'taped' one year at Harvard stadium. All were being taped in one big room, and while waiting, the boys intermingled, talked freely. Which recalled similar scenes when the games were played at Braves Field. Hard, tough football on the gridiron, friendliness, sportsmanship off the field.

Running down the list of past scores . . . Latin won the first two games, and thus took a quick lead . . . English kept coming back, and the lead in games won kept swapping. But English more often than not, was 'on lead'. After the first two games, Latin took the 'lead' four times, in 1903, '12, '15, and in 1924. But English won in 1925, to tie the series, and has led in games won ever since.

Going into the 1951 games, English leads with 27 wins. Latin has won 24 times, and 13 games wound up in a tie. English won last year, in a game that broke all kinds of series scoring records, to interrupt two straight Latin wins.

Harking back to tradition, here are some of the names that will live long, be always 'alive' in English-Latin tradition. Not all past greats are on this list, memories are not that perfect. But with the help of Frank Johnson, who today is seeing his 56th game (56 in a Row since 1896) this list has been compiled:

Glancing at the Record

SIXTY YEARS AGO

1891 . . . BLS 14 — EHS 10 . . . Douglass, Mahoney and Manahan, all of English, carried the ball in a series of "wedges" over the BLS goal . . . A muff of a punt and Gay (L) got the ball and carried to the Blue 5 . . . "Ends Back" and Beale (L) followed Scannell over the goal . . . Douglas (E) scored with a series of line rushes . . . Bullard (E) kicked goal . . . Score now: E 10 — L 4 . . . Another dropped punt by the Blue and Gay (L) picked up ball and ran for TD . . . Score at half: E 10 — L 10 . . . Second half: EHS worked ball down to BLS two . . . A rush, a fumble a run the length of the field by Gould (L) and the score was BLS 14 — EHS 10.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

1901 . . . South End Grounds . . . BLS 6 — EHS 5 . . . "it was one of the hardest fought games between the rivals" . . . The Purple scored first . . . Line play after line play with "tackles back" and Witherbee finally scored . . . Sullivan (L) kicked goal . . . EHS scored in the waning moments of the game, but the wind diverted Kennedy's kick which would have tied the score . . . Sullivan and Burns (E) brought ball down the field and Capt. Connolly (E) scored . . . BLS stalwarts: McCosker, Littlefield, Benshimol, Sones and Sullivan . . . for EHS: Sullivan, Connolly, Manahan, Woodbury . . . EHS was the favorite. Pictures in newspapers of the "fair admirers in muffs, etc." . . . Twenty-five minute halves played.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

1926 . . . Fenway Park . . . EHS 25 — BLS 7 . . . The Purple failed to halt Hootstein . . . 20,000 saw the double-header . . . EHS clinched championship . . . On the first play from scrimmage Hootstein went 70 yards to score — Nemzoff kicked goal . . . Next series: Freno made 35 yards, Marr 5 yards and then Hootstein went 40 yards to score . . . Scorers for the Blue: Hootstein (2) Marr and Nemzoff . . . BLS points came when Costigan intercepted an EHS forward and ran 50 yards for the TD . . . It was Marr's line plunges and Hootstein's runs that wrecked the Purple . . . EHS heroes: Freno, Marr, Nemzoff, Sheehan and Hootstein . . . Purple: Costigan, Verge, Maloney, Colbert, Wells and Hunt . . . Vogel was unable to play.

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

1936 . . . Braves Field . . . BLS 13 EHS 0 . . . very muddy field . . . Plackter (L) broke thru to block EHS punt and recover ball for TD . . . sloppy footing and soggy ball made an open game nearly impossible, though a good number of passes were tried . . . Example: First play: BLS forward intercepted by EHS, run back 10 yards, fumble, BLS recovered wet ball . . . Purple's other TD came from a series of plays by Bjorkland, Gorman, Keyes, and Walsh . . . Dacey kicked the extra point . . . Ed Cowhig carried the ball three out of four times on the EHS threats. Aiding him: Cuddy, Williams, Costello, the Reddys shone for the Blue . . . Capt. Harry Gorman, Plackter, Dacey, Lambert carried the Purple banner high . . . Lambert intercepted EHS pass, lateralled to Gorman who ran for TD, but play called back as "lateral" was "forward".

TEN YEARS AGO

1941 . . . Braves Field . . . BLS 19 — EHS 0 . . . "sparked by a brilliant pass-pitching halfback, a 145 lb. "power-house" halfback and a glue-fingered end, BLS won" . . . Note: Beautiful day . . . Co-Capt. O'Malley, sparkplug for the Blue, could not play . . . Sullivan to McDermott passes scored twice and set up the third for Co-Capt. Brosnahan to score . . . Co-Capt. Kelly passed to Dunn for single extra point . . . Outstanding for the Blue: Murphy, Carven, Co-Capt. Dick Kearns, Kasabian, and all the Sullivans . . . BLS heroes: Brosnahan, Kelly, McDermott, Tarushka, Monahan.

FIVE YEARS AGO

. . . Harvard Stadium . . . EHS 19 BLS 0 . . . A mystery back named Dan Brosnahan (E), missing from action for over a month due to injuries, thrilled 22,000 spectators with a fine display . . . Balerna, Balfour and Capt. Tsavaris were the scorers for the Blue . . . TD's came as follows: Eight yard pass Brosnahan to Tsavaris, Luciano to DellOrfano 10 yard pass and 35 yard run, Balfour from the two . . . BLS came to life with Mabry, a converted guard, passing and running . . . Garcia, Powell, Mabry and Prendergast starred for the Purple . . . and just the whole English team was grand . . . EHS line averaged nearly 200 to the Purple's 160.

LAST YEAR

. . . White Stadium . . . EHS 41 BLS 30 . . . tickets were "scalped" for the game . . . every record in the book went out the window . . . O'Leary, broken finger and all, scored thrice for the Blue and John George three times for Latin . . . Rittenburg twice on the end of passes from Semans . . . but O'Brien, MacDonald, Furillo and Holmes (3 P.A.T.) scored for English to add to the safety that the Blue also collected . . . Every time a spectator looked up someone was kicking off and a touchdown was on the way . . . The game was TVd and the camera man was a very busy person . . . Well over 700 yards gained by both teams . . . No stars to either the blue or the purple. our hats are off to every player on both squads . . . If history is any criterion we must wait 64 years for another game as wild and wooly.
